

LA RUTA DEL AGUILAR TRIUMPHS IN MADRID AND BARCELONA WITH TWO NIGHTS OF NOSTALGIA, DANCING AND THE BIGGEST ANTHEMS OF THE '90S AND 2000S

The return to the stage turned both shows into a reunion with an entire generation, with a hugely enthusiastic crowd response and social media flooded with glowing posts and calls for more editions.

La Ruta del Aguilar has proven once again that the music that defined an entire generation is more alive than ever. Its nights in Barcelona, on October 4 at Luz de Gas, and Madrid, on October 10 at Sala ART, became two massive celebrations of '90s and 2000s throwback music, with nostalgia, dancing and emotion taking center stage.

After more than a decade owning Saturday nights on LOS40, the project led by Tony Aguilar, joined by longtime DJs Jhey Eye, Jhose Ángel and Fidel, brought the crowd together once again around the great R&B, Hip Hop, Dancehall and urban anthems that defined an era. Two nights to sing, dance and relive songs that are part of the collective memory of an entire generation.

The success of both shows also played out on social media, where attendees shared their experiences and flooded the platforms with glowing comments, memories and enthusiastic messages, calling for more editions of La Ruta del Aguilar. It's a response that confirms the staying power of a concept that connects nostalgia with the energy of the dance floor.

Live music and homegrown talent also played a starring role at both parties, with performances by Austin of Buen Color; Siete 7 Black; Kiko of Masterplan; Noemy Nicole; Nalaya Brown; Dr. Flo of Tzaboo; Baby Noel; Pierre of S2; and Paco of TNT, who led a musical journey that paid tribute to the artists who also left their mark on the Spanish scene.

Dance rounded out the experience with Quality Dance Studio, Tribu Urbana Center and Breakers Street Rockets Crew in Barcelona, and Elite Studio and Connection Dance Center in Madrid, all coordinated by Sonia Ebiole, bringing rhythm and energy to two events designed to celebrate urban culture and the legacy of the Black music of those years.

More than an event, La Ruta del Aguilar was a shared trip back to an unrepeatable era, where every song stirred up memories and every chorus brought the crowd together once again.

Relive the success in Madrid and Barcelona here, two nights that reaffirm the power of throwback music and make it clear that fans are still eager to experience La Ruta del Aguilar all over again.
